No problem at all Laura. I left my pic at work today can this wait until tomorrow morning or do you need it right away? I can go back to work and take care of it if it is time sensitive and cannot wait until tomorrow.

Please let me know.

Marlen,

Thank you for revising the map. It looks great but I gave you the wrong information. Apparently, Farmington was the ICP for Region 9 and not Windowrock. So, if we could go back to the previous map you sent and extend the San Juan River more like you did for this one, that would be perfect. Sorry for the extra work and thank you! - lw

Good Morning All,

Please see attached the map with Window Rock and more of San Juan river extended.

I had to shift the extend to be able to show Window Rock.

Let me know if you have any comments.

John can you digitize the river more. Where exactly Window Rock is? Can I get these edits to you later tonight or do you need them right away?

We still need a command post in Window Rock (maybe just label the command posts by their Cities??)

and the San Juan needs to be blue (not grey-ed out) upstream of the confluence with the animas.

1) Add Arizona

Drainage Map:

1) Label Major Rivers

2) Add Tributary that drains into San Juan River just before Lake Powell

3) Add Command Post Locations

4) Remove Drainage Path from Title and replace with Gold King Mine Release Path

Clarification on the Overview map:

When you say spill location, which layer are you referring to?

95% of the map is in Colorado, because we are so zoomed in, there is a very little part in the bottom that falls into NM, if you want me to create an inset map and show all the states I sure can do that.

Let me know.
